New mail problem

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

A new roadblock to proposed downtown Granite City mail was announced this morning by Casper Nighossian, special city attorney for the mail project. Nighossian said the Chapman & Cutler bonding company of Chicago will not give its backing to bonds for the proposed mail until additional information is received, including detailed plans and specifications which may cost more than $10,000 to prepare.

School workers reject proposal

Granite City School District custodians, secretaries and cooks Saturday rejected a proposed agreement with the school district but voted to continue to work pending further negotiations.

The employees, members of Building Service Employees Union Local 58, voted against adopting a proposed agreement for the 1973-74 school year which was presented by the school district administrators during talks Wednesday. No new negotiations sessions have yet been scheduled, spokesmen for both sides said.

The district has reached tentative agreement with the carpenters, laborers, painters and teamsters and membership meetings to vote on those proposals are expected to be called this week.

Nighossian said he does not know from where the money for the design and engineering will come. He said perhaps the city might be able to loan money to the program to be repaid from a special tax for the mail district, but he has not explored the legal aspects of such a loan.

Two other questions posed by the bonding firm have been answered, a response from Chapman verifying acceptance of the answers and outlining additional requirements, including the detailed plans, is expected in about one month, he said.

The questions newly answered concerned whether state and federal officials would allow part of Nighinghaus Avenue to be closed and whether any bonds were outstanding on the present municipal parking lot in the 1800 block of Edison Avenue.

Chapman & Cutler also have been informed there are no bonds outstanding on the present parking lot because it was financed with funds from parking meter revenue and not by bonds.

Nighossian and Mayor Paul Schuler met Thursday afternoon with the Downtown Development Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the Tri-Cities to discuss options for future action.

The committee was told legal objections are anticipated when a petition to establish a special taxing district in the downtown area is filed. "Several objections are expected, but we do not know how many or what they will be," Nighossian said.

3.10-inch rain hits area

A weekend rainfall of 3.10 inches was reported in the quad-city area along with electrical storms that was believed to have been responsible for a power outage in the East Granite area Sunday morning.

The heaviest rainfall occurred Saturday night, measuring 2.32 inches on rain gauges at the Chain of Rocks Canal where weather records are maintained for the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The Sunday fall followed 23 of an inch of rain on Friday, and was followed by .55 of an inch which was recorded as of 8 a.m. today.

Illinois Power Co. officials said lightning was believed responsible for knocking out a circuit of the Kate Street substation at 10:40 a.m. Sunday, primarily affecting the East Granite area. Power was restored in less than an hour, a spokesman said.

SPECIAL MEETING
Personnel and miscellaneous business will be considered by the Madison School Board at a special session at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

He said objections might center on the city's procedures for calling public hearings on the project, on the issue of making the boundaries of the taxing district larger than the boundaries of the mail, or on the makeup of the Board of Local Improvements.

The Board of Local Improvements under state law is comprised of the mayor, the city engineer and the superintendent of streets. The city council on April 3 increased the membership from three to five.

He said he is keeping the board informed on the mail project and the board at any time could go to the City Council to ask the efforts be stopped, modified or "started again from the beginning."

Lytle Guley dies

Lytle F. Guley, 65, former president of Granite City Steel Co. and an active civic leader, died of an apparent heart attack early Sunday morning at his home, 2247 Village Green Parkway, Chesterfield, Mo.

Mr. Guley apparently died while sleeping. He had suffered several previous heart attacks, including one in 1972 which resulted in his retirement as company president. He had served as consultant to the company since that time.

A native of Baltimore, Md., and a 1930 graduate of Johns Hopkins University there, Mr. Guley resided for many years in Granite City.

He came to the area in 1936, working in the laboratory of the Granite City plant of the National Enameling and Stamping Co. (NESCO). He became superintendent, production manager and was named factory manager of the local NESCO plant in 1942, a post he retained until being transferred in 1959 as director of manufacturing at NESCO's Milwaukee, Wis. plant.

Mr. Guley returned here in 1961 when appointed purchasing agent at Granite City Steel Co. He rose through the NESCO management ranks, successively serving as director of purchasing, works manager, vice-president in charge of operations and executive vice-president before his election as president in 1968.

Mr. Guley was president of the Granite City Steel Co. and served as co-chairman of the campaign which raised funds to expand and modernize the hospital.

He was general chairman of the 1971 Tri-Cities Area United Fund campaign.

A former president and member of the governing board of the Manufacturers' Association of the Tri-Cities, Mr. Guley was honored by the group in 1972 with its "George De H" trophy, an annual award bestowed for "effort on behalf of not just his own company, but in helping in the solution of problems which faced the entire family of association companies."

He also was a director of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association.

Mr. Guley was a member of the board of directors of First Granite City National Bank; Pilot Knob Pellet Co.; Moehlenpach Engineering, Inc.; St. Louis; and two Cleveland companies—Cleip Corp. and City Machine and Manufacturing Co., of which he was a former board chairman.

He was a member of the St. Louis Regional Industrial Development Corp., the general committee of the St. Louis Labor and Management Plan, and a founding member of the board of directors of the Council of Contractor Associations.

As a member of the executive committee of the Industrial Gas Users Conference, in 1971 he assisted in negotiations to guarantee local industrial firms gas supplies.

Mr. Guley was a member of the American Iron and Steel Institute and its powerful Committee on Manufacturing Problems.

Open house at hospital

The public is being invited to a new open house at St. Elizabeth Hospital between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 15.

Sister Mary Thomas, administrator, said newly-completed portions of the enlarged and improved hospital will be on display.

Sharing in the celebration relating to the newly-completed facilities will be Congressman Melvin Price of this district.

"We are officially presenting our new facilities housed on the ground floor of the hospital," a spokesman said.

"Some of the new and expanded areas were made possible by the construction and opening of our new wing."

Included in Saturday's visit will be the laboratory, social service department, electrocardiogram area, endocrinology section, business offices, new outpatient waiting area and the redecorated main lobby.

Those wishing to tour the new facilities between 9 and 11 a.m. Saturday are to enter the main lobby, where escorts will be provided. The lobby is at Niedringhaus and Madison Avenues.

It also was announced today that two orthopedic surgeons have joined the hospital's medical staff.

Dr. Kammann Tulyosathien is a graduate of Chienmai Hospital in Thailand. He has practiced at the Jersey City Medical Center and as a clinical fellow special surgery in New York City.

He has had teaching appointments as an instructor in surgery at Cornell Medical College and the College of Medicine-Dentistry of New York University.

Dr. Kraisor Punasthikul is a graduate of Chienmai Hospital, Chienmai, Thailand. He interned at Pontiac General Hospital, Pontiac, Mich.

He was a surgical resident at Unity Hospital in Brooklyn, N.Y., and the Jersey City Medical Center. Also, he served at the Jersey City Medical Center as an orthopedic resident.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests memorials to the St. Louis Heart Fund.

Meat missing, four arrested

Four persons were stopped at the intersection of Hill Avenue and Nameoki Road at 3:35 p.m. Friday and charged with theft; police allegedly found $138 worth of meat in their car, similar to meat just taken from the Kroger store.

The four, all from East St. Louis, said they were Nita D. and Delores King, William Otis and Harold Williams.

The store manager found an additional $63 worth of meat left in the parking lot.

Delinquent federal education loans jeopardize 1,500 other area students

If former college students across the nation do not repay delinquent federal education loans, approximately 1,500 Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville students may be forced to quit or find other financial resources.

Thirty-eight thousand students are behind schedule in repayments in two nationwide loan programs administered by the U. S. Office of Education in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

At SIUE, 11.5 per cent of all students were aided by the student loan programs last year.

Two types of federal loans are used by SIUE students, the National Direct Student Loan (NDSL) and the Guaranteed Student Loan Program (GSLP).

The loan programs will be in jeopardy if collection of defaulted loans is not improved, according to Rep. Samuel L. Devine (D-Ohio).

Devine has introduced legislation that would permit HEW to contract with professional bill collectors to collect the defaulted loans.

The Office of Education spent $3.5 million during fiscal year 1972 trying to collect the past due loans. Only $300,000 was collected.

Finus Winkler, director of the Student Work and Financial Assistance Program at SIUE, said loans are granted to students with a proven need.

"It costs $2,500 to attend SIUE for nine months," Winkler said. "That includes meals, tuition, travel and clothes."

"If a student works part-time for 15 hours a week, he'll make $800. If his family is able to contribute $500, he's still $960 short."

"If there were no other means for him to make up the difference, such as a grant or scholarship, we'd consider giving him a loan."

"A loan is usually the last resort," Winkler added.

At SIUE, 1,481 students were helped by loan programs during the 1972 fiscal year. His office either approved or recommended $1.2 million in loans for students.

"Most of these students would not have been able to stay in school, if the loans were unavailable," Winkler said.

Direct student loans are administered through Winkler's office, with repayments to the bureau's office. The interest rate on this type of loan is three per cent.

The interest on the guaranteed loan is seven per cent. This loan is administered by banks and is federally guaranteed. The student borrows directly from the bank, and Winkler's office merely verifies the student's qualification to the bank on this loan.

Both types of loans are repaid where they are obtained. First installments are due nine months from the date a student leaves school.

In the event of default on SIUE loans, the collection is referred to the Chicago regional Office of Education.

Jan Vogel of the regional office in Chicago is responsible for collecting delinquent loans for the Midwest region.

Miss Vogel said the two main reasons for defaulting are inability to get a job, and becoming financially overextended.

"Ninety-five per cent of all student loans are repaid on schedule," Miss Vogel said. "Only five per cent become delinquent."

"Of the defaulted loans, about 96 per cent of the former students are cooperative and intend to pay as soon as they can."

"Unfortunately, the Office of Education has not learned how to collect money from delinquent students," Devine said. "The number of students who failed to pay their loans is increasing so fast that some pessimists feel the entire program is ready to collapse."

Citing a February 1973 U. S. comptroller general's report, he said the program had almost

Rule county officers can succeed selves

Attorney General William J. Scott has held that county treasurers, though elected under the old Illinois Constitution, can now succeed themselves in office.

Scott issued that official opinion to State's Attorney Randolph A. Combs of Bureau County, he said today.

Under the former Constitution of 1870, treasurers were barred from a second consecutive term. Scott advised, however, that the 1970 Illinois Constitution contains no such prohibition.

To aid disabled veterans

Pointing out that the war is not over for America's disabled veterans, Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City has proclaimed a "Day for Disabled Veterans." The proclamation reads: "The Disabled Veterans Forgive Me-Not Days."

Mayor Schuler urged local citizens to purchase the small blue flower of remembrance—a forget-me-not—from members of the Disabled American Veterans, Quad-City Chapter 33, who will conduct a public sale on the city's streets Friday and Saturday.

Proceeds from the sale will be used by the DAV for its work with disabled veterans and their dependents, according to Cecil Nash, DAV commander.

Mrs. Winnie Kelly and Mrs. Lena Kelips of the DAV Auxiliary are heading the local drive with Nash.

In his proclamation, Mayor Schuler stated: "Many disabled veterans, their families and their dependents are in need of counseling, rehabilitation assistance and advice pertaining to government rights and benefits."

"The Disabled American Veterans, chartered by Congress as the official voice of the nation's wartime disabled, rendering a vital service to the disabled veterans of this community."

"The DAV has pledged itself to protect existing benefits and to help obtain additional needed benefits for America's disabled defenders," Mayor Schuler said.

The mayor commended the local DAV chapter for its service to disabled ex-servicemen in the community and in his proclamation requested "all citizens, interested groups and societies to participate in the day."

Condition emphasized on cross-country team at North High

By KEN THOMPSON
Press-Record Staff Writer
The Granite City High School North Steeler cross-country team will begin its first season of competition at 4 p.m. Tuesday in a home meet with Wood River.

Captain Pete Robinson, formerly the track coach at Grigsby Junior High, says he isn't having any more problems than any other coach would have at a new school.

"In fact, I'm a lot better off than the other coaches here because several of the boys on the team were with me in track at the junior high school."

Robinson also is pleased with having acquired four experienced runners from Granite City South—Mark Becherer, Dave Tanner, Pat Olson and Phil Shands.

Shands, as a Warrior runner last year, ran a 2.8-mile course in 17 minutes and 20 seconds and looks forward to bettering that time this season.

Robinson has only seven boys at the varsity level, but several sophomores are displaying talent that is "unbelievable."

He comments, "Most of our meets are from two to three miles and for a young man to compete in a run of that nature he had better be in top shape."

"Cross-country running is not and never will be a seasonal sport. The athletes has to be in constant training the year-round."

Robinson feels that, although it is a team effort, it also depends on individual achievements.

"This is hard work," he summarizes.

"If a boy wants to come out here and accept the training and conditioning we have to offer, he can fulfill any dream of individual achievement as well as be part of a winning team."

"As far as being able to tell whether we are really going to be competitive, we can't. We don't know the strength of our competitors, and at this time we don't know how many of our runners will stay with us."

Robinson said that some have come out for cross-country primarily to stay in shape for basketball and wrestling.

"I believe the talent is here and the boys are putting all they have into developing a winning attitude and getting into shape."

"But with a relatively new team, it's just a matter of time to develop and progress from meet to meet."

He said that he cannot predict a championship team this year, but does think that several of the athletes will break their individual records and will compete in advanced meets as individual cross-country runners.

Robinson's harriers will have a chance to show what they can do tomorrow against Wood River before traveling to Highland to participate in the St. Paul invitational on Wednesday.

Breeze runners breeze

Breeze Mater Dei harrier Mike Essert ran 2.8 miles in 15 minutes and 51 seconds in leading his school's cross-country team to a 22-39 victory over the Madison High School Trojans in the season opener at Breeze Thursday.

Madison's Kevin Jackson finished second in the race

Softball twinbill

The Granite City Park District will host the first annual Quarrel's Cup softball game Sunday, Sept. 16, in which the Carmody Pontiac men's team will meet the Park District umpires in a doubleheader beginning at 5 p.m.

A large trophy will be presented to the winning team each year, with the name engraved on it, and at the end of five years the team with the most victories will be entitled to keep it.

Sunday's event will be played on Diamond 8 in Wilson Park and the public is invited free of charge.

Big Red bow 16-7

St. Louis' young football Cardinals took a 7-0 halftime lead at home Friday night but bowed 16-7 to aging Kansas City in their final pre-season game. The result left St. Louis with a 2-3 record and the Chiefs 2-4.

The Big Red running attack and punting again faltered. The passing spurted with Jim Hart but spluttered when his only replacement, Gary Keithley, was in the game. Quarterback Tim Van Gelder was released last week.

No. 1 draft choice Dave Butz not only signed his contract Friday but law action immediately in the defensive line.

The only St. Louis TD was a plunge by Donny Anderson. A final Cardinal drive in the closing minutes bogged down on the enemy two-yard line. The Chiefs led 22-30 in yardage.

Don Coryell's eleven will open the National Football League season at Philadelphia Sunday and then host Washington at 1 p.m. Sept. 23.

State soccer champs await new campaign

Gene Baker, new soccer coach at Granite City High School-South, will have a chance to test his prediction "the 1971 Warrior team can be competitive with anyone" when his squad, both junior and varsity levels, meets Assumption at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at the new South soccer field.

Out of the starting lineup are Ted Geggus and Mike Martinez, both with leg injuries received in pre-season practice.

The Warrior soccer team goes into the new season as the defending state champion.

709 for Aaron

Atlanta's Henry Aaron hit his 36th home run of the season Saturday night, reaching a career total of 709, a one-league record. He is five homers behind Babe Ruth, whose 714 included 708 in the American League and six in the National League.

South harriers to open season

The Granite City High School South cross-country team will be part of a triangular meet against the harriers of O'Fallon and Mater Dei this afternoon beginning at 4 o'clock in O'Fallon.

Warrior Coach Dick Harmon is optimistic about his team's chances this year, even though many of his junior and senior runners were sent to GCIS North this fall, due to opening of the second high school this fall.

Harmon said this year's harriers are young, consisting mostly of freshmen and sophomores. But since he has four returning lettermen and two freshmen and one sophomore on the team who have looked sharp in practice, he isn't too worried.

The four lettermen who returned this year are Dwayne Terry, Jim Hall, Jim Caschetta and Greg Ahlers.

"Terry," said Harmon, "is going to be outstanding this year. In our season opener against O'Fallon last year, he placed second behind Howe Bryant with a time of 16:03 around the 2.8-mile track, which helped us to defeat them."

Harmon thinks that if anyone has a chance to break the school record of 15:56, set by Bryant in the meet with O'Fallon it is Terry.

"Our freshmen and sophomore runners are improving rapidly," remarked the coach, "and the two who kept an eye on as the year progresses will be Mike Cothens and Randy Presswood."

Most of the younger boys are from Central and Coolidge schools. Although they have had a Little experience, it is something entirely new to them to have to run seven or eight miles in one day, he noted.

The South runners will be on their own home grounds tomorrow in a 4:30 p.m. meet with Edwardsville and then will, venture to Highland for the St. Paul invitational run on Wednesday.

"I think the team to beat this afternoon will be O'Fallon," said Coach Harmon. "The team already has a one-meet jump on us and looked fast."

Baseball Cards game ahead; host Montreal

The baseball Cardinals lost 6-3 at Chicago Friday, seeing their first place lead drop from three to two games. Then the lead dwindled to one game Saturday as the lost 3-1 to the Cubs and Pittsburgh continued to win. Billy Williams' five hits doomed St. Louis Friday as Burt Hooton won a seven-hitter. The Cardinals tied Saturday's game in the sixth, but Chicago regained the lead in the seventh and Ron Santo homered in the eighth. The visitors threatened but could not homer up. Williams' home broke a 4-4 tie as the Cubs swept the Series Sunday with a 5-4 win. After leading 7-1, Pittsburgh lost 8-7 yesterday and remained a game behind the Cardinals. It will be Alan Foster pitching for St. Louis against Montreal at Busch Stadium Tuesday night. Rick Wise will be the Cardinal hurler Wednesday night. The Pirates will arrive for a three-game series starting Friday night, and then the Cardinals will travel to Montreal, Philadelphia and New York before hosting Chicago and the Phillies.

Spalding gains title

Defending track champion with Spalding, Pontoon Beach, virtually clinched the 1973 Central Auto Racing Association championship with two back-to-back victories during the weekend. At Tri-City Speedway Friday evening, Spalding started at the end of the 25-lap late model stock car feature event. At the midway point he had worked his way through the field to challenge the two front runners, Clyde Lindemann, Cottleville, Mo., and Ron King, St. Louis. The three cars charged fender to fender through the corners and down the straightaway until the last lap, when Spalding inched ahead to take the checkered flag for the victory. He had earlier piloted his Camaro around the half-mile racing plant to set the fastest qualifying time of the program and capture his heat race. But he failed to make a clean sweep of events when he had to settle for second place finish behind Kenny Schrader, Valley Park, Mo., in the handicap race for the six fastest qualifiers. King was the winner of the other late model stock heat race. On Sunday night at Lake Hill Speedway in Missouri, Spalding broke the track record, held by himself, with a one lap time of 15.27 seconds around the one-third mile asphalt speedway to post the fastest time of the evening there. Spalding then led a stellar field to the checkered flag to capture the 100-lap season championship race, leaving him unbeatable in the point standings for the year.

Warrior soccer team tops alumni

The Granite City High School Warrior soccer team, coached by Gene Baker, scored twice in the second half to down the alumni of that team 3-2 in an exhibition game Saturday at the school's soccer field. The alumni, headed by four former members of the Warrior's 1972 championship team, took a 2-1 lead but fell behind when Don Goldsmith and Mike Martinez scored at the beginning of the second half. Martinez, who had just recovered from leg injuries received in a pre-season session, collided with another player after scoring and was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital. Five sutures were required to close a cut to his head. He was kept overnight for observation.

Danforth Fellowships open

Women whose preparation for college or secondary school teaching has been postponed or interrupted are being urged to apply for Danforth Foundation graduate fellowships, according to J. Robert Russo, associate dean of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Graduate School.

Russo said a candidate for one of the special fellowships or women must have experienced a continuous break of at least three years when she was not engaged in study or teaching. During the application period, which extends to April 5, 1974, the candidate may not be employed as a full-time teacher or enrolled as a full-time graduate student.

The fellowships are open to women who hold bachelor's degrees from accredited colleges or universities in the United States. Thirty-five new appointments are available annually. Appointments are for one year beginning Sept. 1, 1974, and they may be renewed annually. The stipend depends on individual need, but the maximum award will be $3,000 plus tuition and academic fees, or for heads of families, $4,000 plus tuition and fees.

Russo said the Danforth Foundation established the fellowship 10 years ago "with the hope of demonstrating that there is a reservoir of latent talent among the many college trained women who are not fully prepared to assume teaching responsibilities."

"The career of a typical candidate may have been interrupted by such factors as raising of her family, personal illness, or the need for a paying job, but she now finds herself in circumstances which will permit her to undertake graduate work essential for a career as a full-time teacher," Russo said.

During the nine years of the program to date, 246 women have been awarded fellowships. Additional information and application forms may be obtained from Russo in the Graduate School office 2302 General Office Building, SIUE.

Cinema addition plans are told

Tom Elliott, manager of the N. W. Nameoki Village Cinemas 1 & 2, told the Granite City Breakfast Kiwanis Club at its Thursday meeting that Mid-America Theatres will add Nameoki Cinemas 3 & 4 in the future but a specific target date has not yet been set.

Questioned about restricted ("R" rated movies) Elliott said that no one under 17 years of age, without their parents attending the show with them, are admitted to restricted movies.

Sometimes, he said, he has a problem with parents who bring the younger child to the theatre, buy the ticket and then leave.

When this happens the person under 17 is not admitted. He pointed out that films shown here are selected in the company's St. Louis office.

The club renewed its participation in the United Way drive that will begin Sept. 25. Members will contact service stations and grocery stores, according to Kiwanian Melvin Gilie.

It was announced by President Ray Grisham that the Sept. 23 meeting will be a picnic at Bower's farm.

Lawyers' conduct being monitored

An assurance that the disciplinary process concerning lawyers in Illinois has been opening on strong ethical grounds in the past and will continue to do so in the future has been voiced by William P. Sutter, president of the Illinois State Bar Association.

During the last fiscal year, July 1, 1972, to June 30, 1973, he said, 185 alleged cases of unethical conduct by attorneys were acted upon by the ISBA Grievance Committee.

Three attorneys' licenses were revoked, six were suspended and three lawyers were censured.

In his statement, issued after criticism of the legal profession's relation to the Watergate scandal, Sutter explicitly condemned such admitted or alleged Watergate activities and the lawyers responsible for them.

He commented that, to the best of his knowledge, there were no Illinois lawyers involved in Watergate, but added that he would not be able to report on the pending disciplinary proceedings against any who, if such a case were to arise in the future.

Sutter said, "The rule in Illinois, which I believe to be wise, is that disciplinary proceedings are confidential until such time as a recommendation for disciplinary action has been filed with the Illinois Supreme Court."

However, he assured residents that "in Illinois, it has never been considered necessary to delay grievance proceedings where a lawyer's conduct is demonstrably improper, until such time as his conduct has also been held to be criminal."

Until recently, in Illinois, the task of handling disciplinary matters was shared by the Illinois State and Chicago Bar Associations.

Sutter emphasized, "Membership in one of the associations has never been accorded the slightest weight in consideration of charges of misconduct against an Illinois lawyer."

He explained that as of Feb. 1, 1973, largely as the result of recommendations of the two associations, disciplinary proceedings affecting members of the ISBA were placed under the administrative supervision of an Attorney Registration Commission, the members of which are appointed by, and are directly responsible to, the Illinois Supreme Court.

"This change in the handling of grievance matters," Sutter added, "should serve to alleviate any suspicions of favoritism by grievance officers toward fellow members."

County Zoning board sets 10 area hearings

Ten on-site hearings on petitions for special use permits have been scheduled by the Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals in the Quad-City area. Nine of the petitions request special use permits to locate mobile homes in areas zoned for other uses.

The exception is a request by Linda M. Widel, owner of record, for a special use permit to bake and decorate cakes in an R-2 one family residence at 4245 Highway 162 in Nameoki Township. That hearing is scheduled at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 20.

The hearings on requests for mobile home permits include: Petition of George and Pearl A. Ritt, owners, and Anna Sutter, occupant, to place a mobile home in an R-2 one family residence district on Chouteau Island, north of Old 66 and south of I-270, at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 19.

Petition of Donald Brauch, owner, to place a mobile home in an agricultural district of Chouteau Township, at 9:35 a.m. Sept. 19.

Petition of Troy Glendening, owner, to place a mobile home in an M-2 general manufacturing district in Chouteau district in Chouteau Township (Chouteau Plate subdivision), at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 19.

Reseeding revives dead lawns

By WAYNE B. SIEBERT

Dead patches in your lawn can be repaired easily by reseeding and proper care.

Melting-out disease commonly produces drought-like patches in lawns during August and September. Dead clumps and thinned-out areas are the usual results, but sometimes rains or frequent watering can start a forest-fire of fungus activity which completely kills large areas of turf.

Fall reseeding with bluegrass will soon restore these areas if adequate moisture is supplied. Late September seeding with Fyking or Penn Star will take advantage of cool weather and fall rains.

During the seed germination period you must water daily to avoid drying out of the seed and seedlings. As soon as the grass is fuzzy green you should shift to less frequent watering and more deep soaking.

Before reseeding, apply fertilizer and rough up the thin areas with a rake. An extra bonus will occur when you continue to cut at two and a half inches or above. The surviving bluegrass will begin to spread and help fill in the thin spots. The combined program of reseeding, fertilizing, tall cut, and a careful watering program will soon repair these dead areas and restore your lawn.

If you decide to tear up your lawn and start over you probably will have a poorer lawn.

Most turf pests can be eliminated by good management and use of specific chemicals. Thatch removal and reseeding are the final ingredients to develop a quality turf.

Broadleaf weeds like dandelions, Plantain, and clover can be easily eliminated by using a broadleaf weed killer in September.

Crabgrass and knotweed are two annuals which die out in late September to provide a mulch during the winter. Fall treatment is not necessary.

Thatch removal and reseeding are both timely in September and preserve existing bluegrass. Thatch removal is beneficial when the layer of plant residue is more than a half-inch thick.

A spongy sensation when you walk on the turf is often a clue. This layer of residue hinders water and air penetration and prevents successful germination of new seed. When reseeding is necessary, dethatching is especially important.

Reseeding is not necessary when you have a thin stand of bluegrass. Tall cutting and lots of fertilizer will revitalize the survivors.

Bermuda grass and tall fescue are difficult to eliminate. Occasional clumps of tall fescue can be cut out and replaced. Large patches of tall fescue can be removed with a sod cutter. At present there is no way to eliminate bermuda.

August meter collections

Granite City's parking meters received $4,157 during August, more than the $3,942 of the previous month, Paul Rutledge, city treasurer, announced today.

Last month's total included $3,519 in meter fees and $638 in fines. July's income included $3,259 in fees and $683 in fines.

The income brought the total collected in the first eight months of the year to $34,467, a record for the period, exceeding the $33,867 collected by the meters in the same period of 1972, a record year.

Meters operated 27 days in August and the average daily collection was $154. In July, meters operated 25 days and the average daily collection was $157.

Use of waste as fuel eases energy shortage

Springfield — With some cooperative effort, more Illinois communities could deal with their solid wastes and their energy shortages at the same time, says an authority in the state's Institute for Environmental Quality.

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley recently announced that city has reached an agreement with Commonwealth Edison to begin, by 1975, using solid waste for fuel in the Commonwealth Edison boilers.

A similar program has been underway in St. Louis since April 1972, and Larry Hardin of the solid waste management section in the IDEQ said that while St. Louis authorities haven't publicized the program much, it appears to be quite successful.

Such a plan, Hardin said, can't be used in small communities, since it takes about 500 tons of solid waste a day to break even, financially. Anything above that usually results in a profit, he said.

To generate that amount of solid waste requires a population of 100,000 to 200,000. While there are few cities in the state with that population density, there are many areas where closely situated smaller towns or suburban communities by working together could qualify.

Under the program, bottles and cans are removed from the solid waste and the remaining material is shredded and then fed into the boilers at the rate of 10 to 15 per cent of the total fuel. Solid waste generates about 5,000 btu per pound, compared to 11,000 to 13,000 BTU for coal, so amounts in any given load would be limited. However, the solid waste material is low in sulphur content and therefore a desirable fuel source, Hardin said.

The plan has the additional value of disposing of troublesome solid waste materials at little extra cost, he added, since the boilers, generators, and air pollution control devices are already there anyway, for normal fuel use.

"In effect, it is another way to recycle this waste material," Hardin said, "and it's beautiful. Most recycling methods aren't profitable enough to be worth the effort, but this material costs about $3 a ton, compared to much higher costs for other fuels, and also saves a city between $5 and $20 a ton on conventional disposal costs." He added that the cans and bottles removed could also then be sent into recycling systems, increasing the benefits.

New judges honored

Illinois judges numbering 380 from the Supreme, Appellate and Circuit levels convened last week at the Lake Shore Club of Chicago to study and discuss trends in substantive and procedural law through Friday.

Topics were evidence, criminal law, sentencing, torts, trial judge functions and appeal records.

Gov. Daniel Walker spoke, being introduced by Supreme Court Justice Walter V. Schaefer. The conference was opened by Judge Rodney Scott of Decatur, chairman of the Illinois Judicial Conference executive committee.

Retired and newly named judges were honored at a luncheon Thursday, and the meeting ended Friday.

Third Circuit judges appointed by the Illinois Supreme Court since June 1972 are John L. DeLaurenti, Victor J. Moselle and Moses W. Harrison II, the latter seated as a judge this month.

Campers find snow, cold

Camping in late August with snow on the ground and temperatures in the low 40s was the experience of members of Explorer Post 6 sponsored by the Concordia Lutheran Church on a trip to Colorado.

The Rawah wilderness area in northern Colorado near the Wyoming border has been the late August camping grounds for the local Explorers for the past three years.

In addition to staying warm, their activities included fishing and back packing into the remote Colorado wilderness area.

"This year we were lucky it did not snow directly on us," Bruce Evans, associate advisor of the post, related.

"Last summer we were camped in the Rawah wilderness area in late August and had a two-inch snowfall."

A large snow field was located less than 100 feet from their base camp, according to Evans. Making the trip was Donald Beck, Explorer Post 6 advisor, John McGee, Brad Cowan, Jim Thorne, Scott Stille, Glenn Rivenburgh, Mike Anderson, Donald Shanks and Evans.

Explorer Post 6 is an Indian Lore specialty post, and any boy over 14 interested in Indian Lore may contact any member of the post for information about the group's activities.

The Schermer Bulletin

Things are getting back to normal and many prices are falling. Many items in our produce are selling for as little as 50¢ of the price just a few weeks ago; and there are some real buys. Thompson seedless grapes sold last week 4 lbs. for $1.00. That is the lowest price in years. In our meat department, our beef supply is back to normal, and we are now getting some of the smaller lean cattle that our customers prefer. These fat cattle that we were forced to cut just don't please our customers; so come on in and check our price and our quality.

We bought some Israeli canned grapefruit sections and combination grapefruit and orange sections. They are really delicious and we will be offering them at 3 cans for $1.00. Possibly this week, depending on arrival. Todays ad shows a good downward trend in many items in our store. The sliced bacon ends are down 80¢ on a three lb. box over last week. We just hope the good news continues. It's been rough, but, the worst is over. Let the good times roll.

Mrs. Jachino attends reunion in Italy

Mrs. Jemma Jachino, 1 Nassau St., and five of her American-born sisters have returned to their homes in this country after attending a family reunion in Italy for the first time since their parents came to this country 65 years ago.

Mrs. Henrietta Andreone, Mrs. Clara Nardi, Mrs. Guida Pruner and Mrs. Ida Grossi live in the Pittsburgh, Pa., area, and another sister, Mrs. Erma Stefano, resides in Detroit, Mich.

The family was separated 65 years ago when Angelina and Giacomo Dal Bon came to America and left two infants, Primo and Rosina, in Italy, planning to return for the children when they became settled.

During the years that followed the couple had more children, including the six sisters, Guida, Verge and Gino. Gino is now deceased.

Primo and Rosina were reared by their grandparents in a little town of Alano Di Piave in northern Italy, and when they were old enough to decide for themselves, they chose to stay in Europe. Rosina Rizzotto married and remained in Alano Di Piave, but Primo moved to Rome.

The sisters toured many areas of the country and visited with relatives, but the highlight of the trip was the reunion dinner at Hotel Sante in Alano Di Piave attended by 63 members of the family.

Guida and Verge, who live in Pittsburgh, were unable to make the trip.

Their father, Mr. Dal Bon, died at the age of 62 in Pittsburgh. He never was able to return to Italy to see his two children.

Mrs. Dal Bon made one trip back to the "old country" 15 years ago for a family visit and Mrs. Rosina Rizzotto visited with her family in Pittsburgh four years ago. Primo visited in 1971 shortly before his mother died at the age of 84.

REY BRACOMONTES OF THE T-CITIES AREA YMCA reported Thursday that burglars removed a window screen and entered his room from the roof of the YMCA building, stealing a sport coat valued at $50, an all-weather coat worth $65, a total of $61 in cash and two bottles of prescription medicine.

Rhonda Hoffman weds Airman Craig Fexer

Miss Rhonda Sherree Hoffman, 4087 South Broadway, St. Louis, became the bride of Airman First Class Craig Alexander Fexer in an evening ceremony Sept. 1 at the South Side Church of Christ in St. Louis.

Bouquets of summer blossoms adorned the altar and decorated the aisle for the 7 o'clock double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Tommy South.

Choral selections were presented by the Ocapella Choir during the service.

The bride is a daughter of Bert Hoffman of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Mrs. Thomas Williams of Granite City. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Fexer, reside in St. Louis.

For her wedding, the former Miss Hoffman selected a Chantilly lace gown designed with four peplum tiers at the waist extending to the back and forming a full sweep train.

Long tapered sleeves coming to points at the wrist were set in a molded bodice fashioned with a decollete neckline, edged with mother of pearl sequins.

She wore a crown of imported Austrian crystals to secure her elbow length veil of bridal illusion and she held a crescent bouquet of white mums, centered with pink Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Linda A. Knier, matron of honor, was attired in a pink silk organza dress made with a colonial style bouffant skirt and accented at the natural waistline with a matching sash.

Gathered ruffles edged the cuffs of the long sleeves and the neckline.

Bridesmaids, Miss Cecelia Cordes, a cousin of the groom and Miss Karen Caylor, were groomed in identically styled dresses as worn by the bride, must only in deep plum blue silk organza.

Each adult attendant wore a crown of seed pearls and sequins to hold in place a shoulder length veil in a shade to match her dress. They held arrangements of white carnations tinted with blue.

Michelle Rouse and Kimberly Lundford, flower girls, wore frocks similar in design to the bride's gown. Both had pink and blue ribbons in their hair and carried baskets of blue and pink carnations.

Two other flower girls, Stacey and Christie Williams, sisters of the bride, were dressed in Empire style frocks in light blue with white flocking and held bouquets of carnations. Attending the groom as best man was Robert Zimmer. Joe Rouse, Stan Hoffman, a brother of the bride, Terry Zimmer, John Kittel, Don Walker and Bruce Boesch completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers. Daniel Henriquez, a cousin of the groom, served as the ringbearer.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at American Legion Post 306 in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Fexer, parents of the groom, hosted a rehearsal dinner in their home.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Granite City High School, where she was a member of the Red Peppers. She had been employed as a secretary.

Her husband was graduated in 1972 from Lindbergh High School and has been serving with the U. S. Air Force at Forbes AFB, Topeka, Kan.

They will reside in Little Rock, Ark., where the groom is to be stationed.

Scout Council foes may find it hard to explain 'best in area' award

Within the last several years, the Cahokia Mound Council of the Boy Scouts of America was under heavy attack, from within and without. The effort was directed toward destroying the council and making the same territory a district of a proposed vast council having headquarters in St. Louis.

There never was any documented, well-thought-out, believable explanation of what certain interests wanted the Boy Scout Council to do.

The case seemed primarily to rest on the contention that Madison-Bond Counties' know-how, interest and financial capability were at such a low level that continued operation was impractical. We were a bunch of well-meaning but inept people, it was argued, who didn't know how to recruit boys or leaders or sponsors or supporters.

Even in those days, the allegations were scandalously inaccurate and unfair. Now, under the leadership of Council President Melvin L. Gillie, it is even clearer that the two-county council is fully capable of planning and carrying out a quality scouting program—quality, in fact, far above that which would have resulted from the proposed "little fish in a big pond" district status.

After the council voted against dismantling itself, it was transferred from its traditional Illinois-Wisconsin-Michigan-Indiana region to a region extending to North Dakota and part of Wyoming.

All of which is past history but seems highly pertinent to a new development. The Cahokia Mound Council has just been declared to have the best performance record of the 17 councils in the North Central Region's Area Three (Missouri, Kansas, southern Illinois and part of Iowa). The local rating is third best among the 55 councils throughout the region.

Councils cited included the excellence of the council's camping operations and its ability to attract new scouts and scouting units.

It would appear that enough has been said on the subject and that the outstanding record speaks eloquently for itself. But, incredibly, the whole proposition of "copping out" on council responsibilities has been given new life and will be considered again this fall (due to an order from the region).

The revived idea makes no sense and we would guess will be rejected overwhelmingly.

Tapes still center of a storm

WASHINGTON — In a secret storage area in the Executive Office Building next to the White House the most explosive evidence in the Watergate case is being held under lock and key.

Arrayed over shelves in chronological order are taped conversations of President Nixon with virtually every staff member, personal friend, foreign visitor or domestic official he has spoken to at any one of four locations since the spring of 1971.

These tapes are now the storm center of an historic constitutional powers battle among the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government to determine whether Mr. Nixon can be forced to permit examination of their contents.

The U.S. Supreme Court probably will have to render the final decision. Mr. Nixon has said he would honor a "definitive" Supreme Court ruling.

But the issues involved are far more complex than just Watergate. They strike at the heart of the indistinct dividing line between the relative powers of the three branches of government.

Perhaps even more important is the question of whether an American president could function effectively if the general principle of the confidentiality of internal White House discussions is ever breached.

For the tapes have been recorded, for example, Mr. Nixon's confidential exchanges with Soviet General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev, Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany, President Joseph Broz Tito of Yugoslavia, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau of Canada, former Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain, and former Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan among others — all without their knowledge.

In 1971 and 1972 alone, Mr. Nixon conferred with 38 different heads of government or chiefs of state in Washington, and held innumerable highly sensitive conversations with his chief foreign adviser, Henry Kissinger, on the most critical and sometimes highly classified foreign policy decisions facing the nation.

If those conversations were held in the White House Executive Office, in his Executive Office Building office, at Camp David or on four of his personal telephones they were automatically recorded.

And, if other meetings, including cabinet sessions, were held in the White House cabinet room, too, were recorded if a button was pushed to activate hidden recording equipment.

Mr. Nixon stated in his Aug. 15 statement on Watergate that the tapes contained "blunt and candid" language. And White House attorney Charles Alan Wright said in Aug. 22 court arguments that sensitive national security information is involved.

"The President told me one tape had a national security matter so highly sensitive he didn't even feel free to hint to me what it was," Wright said. So far as is known only five persons have listened to at least some of the tapes. They are Mr. Nixon, his White House attorney, Leonard Garment, Fred Bushard and Wright, and former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman.

The lawyers reportedly monitored some tapes in preparing the President's May 29 statement, and perhaps over subsequent statements, on Watergate to make certain they conformed with the requirements of the law.

Mr. Nixon, too, in a July 23 letter to Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-C., chairman of the Senate Select Watergate Committee, said he too had listened to a number of the tapes and found them entirely consistent with what he had reported. But he added:

"However... they contain comments and persons with different perspectives and motivations would inevitably interpret in different ways... there are inoperably interspersed in them a great many very frank and very private comments...."

...An important tapes could be accurately understood or interpreted only by reference to an enormous number of other documents and tapes, so that to open them at all would begin an endless process of disclosure and explanation of private presidential records totally unrelated to Watergate and highly confidential in nature."

Haldeman similarly disclosed to Sen. Ervin that he had listened to two of the tapes at Mr. Nixon's request and took one home where it was kept for two days in a closet.

Although Wright said, President did not disclose the tapes' contents, Haldeman did say they did not support testimony by former White House counsel John Dean on two critical points:

(1) That the President had shown awareness of Watergate cover-up efforts as early as Sept. 15, 1972, only three months after the June 17 break-in at Democratic National Headquarters in the Watergate complex here. The burglars were reportedly hired by Mr. Nixon's reelection committee.

(2) That Mr. Nixon had indicated to Sen. Ervin no problem in raising $1 million to buy the silence of the seven men arrested in the break-in.

Election funding changes expected

By JAMES CARY
Chief, Washington Bureau
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — The United States is moving closer and closer to revolutionary changes in the way it finances and administers top federal election campaigns.

Establishment of an independent federal election commission to require strict compliance with all election laws is a distinct possibility this year.

So too is a much tighter limit on the amounts individuals and groups can contribute to any one candidate and how much that candidate can spend to gain office.

More visionary and presumably further away in time — but still possible this year — is some degree of public financing of elections for president and/or both houses of Congress.

All of this is riding on four key pieces of legislation pending in Congress, combined with the momentum for change created by election abuse disclosures in the Watergate scandal.

These bills, for identification purposes, are Sen. John Pastore's (D-R.I.) S-72 establishing a federal election commission; S-228 sponsored by Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., providing for public financing of presidential campaigns; H.R. 112, by Reps. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., John Anderson, R-Ill., and 122 co-sponsors, establishing both an election commission and providing for public campaign financing; and S-1180 by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., providing for public financing of House and Senate, but not presidential, races.

What the bills attempt to deal with is a problem as old as democratic elections. It takes money to run for public office.

Individuals and business organizations that want to have influence, and be able to communicate with the holder of that office, make contributions to help finance the campaigns of one or more candidates.

If they pick the eventual winner they may have planted the seeds for corruption — or the potential for it, at least, if not the actuality.

The corrupt Practices Act of 1925 was supposed to change all that, but was full of loopholes, so loosely drawn only the most perfunctory disclosure and reporting of contributions was required.

The new federal Election Campaign Act of 1971 was the first major reform. It set a strict, 10-cents-per-voter limit on the amounts individuals and groups can contribute to any one candidate for Congress or the presidency could spend on television, radio, newspaper and other media advertising.

It required the public reporting of all contributions or loans of more than $100, with names and addresses of the contributors.

It limited the amount a candidate or his family could contribute to his own campaign to $50,000 for president or senator and $25,000 for representative.

And it made the secretary of the Senate, House clerk and controller general the supervisory officer for collecting campaign reports for Senate, House and presidential candidates, respectively.

Enforcement powers to punish violators were still left to the Justice Department. Problems with the new law, despite its improvements, quickly appeared after the 1972 campaign.

The volume of paper work from the required campaign reports proved virtually unmanageable.

The House clerk received 110,000 pages of material, the Senate secretary 60,000, the finding errors or misstatements in such a mass of data would be virtually impossible without some prior knowledge of their existence.

Diffusion of the reports into three different offices also made checking extremely difficult.

The principal hope for correcting much of this is S-72, I said, passed by the Senate by a lopsided 82-8 vote on July 30 and is now pending in the House, where portions of it may be referred to the Commerce Committee, to the Judiciary Committee and to the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct.

In S-72 the main reform is creation of an independent federal election commission of seven members — the U.S. controller general, plus six appointed by the president, including four recommended by the Senate and House.

The commission would have full subpoena powers and primary jurisdiction to bring criminal and civil actions against election law violators.

This would take enforcement out of the hands of the Justice Department — an agency hardly known for past vigorous prosecution of election violators.

The bill would limit to $3,000 individual contributions to any one candidate for Congress or the presidency in a primary campaign, an additional $3,000 in a general election and $3,000 more if there is a runoff.

An individual could make similar contributions to more than one candidate for the same race but would be limited to a $25,000 total contribution ceiling.

Political committees, however, are held only to the $3,000 limit on individual campaign contributions. There is no overall ceiling on how much they can contribute.

S-72 also imposes tight spending limits on candidates. House candidates can spend a maximum of $50,000 and Senate and presidential candidates in a given state $175,000 each.

The measure requires all members of Congress, all candidates for Congress and high-ranking government officials to file public statements reporting gifts over $100, all income and all assets.

Speaking of the transportation tried during the trip, we should include the Rialto, the giant ferris wheel at the Prater amusement park in Vienna, Austria. Its cars can hold several hundred persons and rise to a height of over 200 feet.

The city of Vienna operates its own gambling casino, but the attractions at Prater are innocent — electric light games, tea houses, restaurants, mirrored fun houses for youngsters, and restaurants offering well-prepared "Wiener" veal dishes.

And there are three really innovative rides through darkened "horror" buildings — an ancient fun but still able to surprise if not frighten.

Europe by gondola and cable

It's good to be home again — and not just because it's easier to find a McDonald's Restaurant.

When a couple travels with its soon-to-be 12-year-old, such considerations as where to get one's next double cheeseburger loom large. But we found a McDonald's in Paris, France.

And there usually was a Coca-Cola or Pepsi available, no matter where we went during a four-week European tour in August. The Uncola? Well, Seven Up apparently has yet to make a major dent in European bottling.

It is good to be home again partly because living is so much more convenient — not only familiar food and surroundings, but easier travel and access to the people and goods and activities which collectively make up daily life in mid-America. (Coffee in France and Italy still remains unpalatable to most Americans.)

But primarily it's good to be home again because that's the point involved in journeying to places where "it's nice to visit but you wouldn't want to live there."

Seeing life elsewhere affords better understanding and insight into conditions here as well as overseas.

Travel during the officially proclaimed "Year of Europe" is brought to the pocketbook and also somewhat hazardous due to current London, Athens and Middle East unrest. But, as always, it is a colorful, exciting, informative, unforgettable experience.

The kaleidoscope of impressions and observations is so voluminous that the traveler after a few days finds it difficult to keep everything neatly sorted and catalogued.

But it provides tremendously valuable input for the student of history, young or old, because Europe is where so much of our civilized and uncivilized past occurred.

Attempting an individual tour without benefit of much language expertise, we again find it relatively easy to function abroad as long as a degree of tolerance is exercised and one is willing to adjust and adapt.

No meals or voyages or flights were missed, and all returned home healthy, though weary.

Virtually all methods of travel were tried, including autos, taxis, buses, trains, airlines, jumbo jets, motorboats, gondolas, trains, trolleys, tower and mountain elevators and a variety of cable cars.

Current mass transit woes here stand out in sharp contrast to the dominance and convenience of street cars, buses and underground trains in most of the cities of Europe.

They may be subsidized, but basic transit systems overseas are inexpensive, well planned and offer first-class service. Prominently displayed numbers and letters allow even foreign tourists to easily select the right route.

Heavy St. Louis regional emphasis on bottomland and floodplain problems seemed ironical last month in Venice, Italy, where a major city operates smoothly in the midst of the Adriatic Sea, and in Holland, where vast new land areas continue to be invented by staking out claims in the Atlantic Ocean.

Speaking of the transportation tried during the trip, we should include the Rialto, the giant ferris wheel at the Prater amusement park in Vienna, Austria. Its cars can hold several hundred persons and rise to a height of over 200 feet.

Election by Woman's Guild

SEPTEMBER 10, 1948

fast-paced "air hockey" games requiring the reflexes of a St. Louis Blues goalie.

There are two roller coaster rides at Prater, both topping anything of the type we have sampled in this country. The "jet star ride" leaves leaving memories of its drop and immediate turn and its surprisingly powerful "G" forces at several points.

Vienna, or Wien, is called the most beautiful of all Danubian metropolitan cities, although its prevailing architecture in residential areas is not impressive.

Whatever it may lack in visual beauty is made up for by the deserved reputation as a city of music and song. Vienna spawned many of the world's most highly-regarded composers and there is still strong emphasis on entertainment by instrumental ensembles featuring violins.

And there are eye-pleasing scenes, including the adjacent Vienna woods and the hauntingly beautiful grounds and hunting areas of Mayerling, the royal domain where Crown Prince Rudolph, heir to the Austrian throne, took his life in 1889.

Another tragedy comes to mind in recalling our tour of the Imperial Palace in Vienna. The dynasty ended in 1918, the last emperor being Charles I. He ruled only two years, beginning in 1916, and died in exile on the island of Madeira in 1922.

While 55 years have passed since its formal use, the apartment area of the palace remains today almost as it appeared when occupied by the royal family.

Those who tour the large, high-ceilinged rooms of the palace almost feel they know Emperor Francis Joseph I and Empress Elizabeth, due to the many paintings and photographs of them, and their treasures of furniture and decor.

In one room are exercise structures where the youthful Emperor and Empress worked to maintain health and a trim figure — an activity considered shocking at the time.

Points seen were the dining room for staff officers, reception area, smoking room, reception hall where they granted an audience waited, presence chamber of the emperor, conference room, study, bedrooms, large and small drawing rooms, living room, dressing room and dining hall, the latter still in readiness with a superbly appointed table set for 24.

The oldest part of the Imperial Palace, the Swiss wing, was built in the 13th century. On its ground floor are the secular and ecclesiastical treasures as well as the chapel, where on Sundays and holidays church-goers hear Masses sung by the famed Vienna Choir Boys.

Other wings were added, including Amalienhof, named after the wife of Emperor Joseph I and built in the 16th century.

Another wing, named for Leopold I and built in the 17th century, houses the office of the Austrian federal president.

The main apartment is in the chancellery designed by the Baroque architect Johann von Eriach during the reign of Emperor Charles VI in the 18th century.

Francis Joseph, born in 1830, ascended to the throne of the monarchy in 1848 and was destined to remain there until his death in 1916 at the age of 86, after a 68-year reign.

In 1854 he married a Bavarian princess, Elizabeth. A unique and strikingly beautiful woman, she was popularly called "Sisi."

The empress was fluent in several languages, played numerous musical instruments, took part in many artistic endeavors and was skilled on horseback.

But she paid a high price for a full and active life spent in royal splendor.

She was assassinated in Geneva in 1898 by an Italian anarchist, Lucchini. The man where his knife was plunged into her heart is still visible in the dress she wore.

Conference on handicapped

A national conference on early childhood education for handicapped children will be sponsored by the special education department of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Oct. 4 and 5 at Stouffer's Riverfront Inn in St. Louis.

James E. Walker, assistant professor of special education at SIUE and conference chairman, said the conference is designed for individuals interested in early childhood education for handicapped children to share knowledge, and provide methods for dealing with some of the problems involved in administration of programs, training of personnel, early identification, curriculum development, legal rights, and evaluation of programs.

Conference program participants will include Joe Glasford, director of special education for the Illinois office of the superintendent of public instruction; Ernest A. Gots, department of special education, University of Texas; J. McVicker Hunt, department of psychology, University of Illinois; Teresa Lawrence and George Olshin, both of the department of special education of Southern Connecticut State College.

Carol D. Marell, handicapped children section, Illinois office of the superintendent of public instruction; Edwin W. Martin, Bureau of Education for the Handicapped, Washington, D. C.; David Shearer and Mrs. Marsha Y. Shearer, both of the Portage Project, Portage, Wis.; and Howard H. Spicker, department of special education, Indiana University, who will give the keynote address on the subject, "Why Early Childhood Education?"

The conferees will be welcomed by Dr. John S. Rendleman, president of SIUE; W. Deane Wiley, dean of the SIUE School of Education; and William R. Whiteside, chairman of the SIUE department of special education.

The advance registration period for the conference will end Sept. 24. The registration fee is $25.00. Additional information may be obtained from Walker at the SIUE department of special education.

Tips on cutting your heating costs:

a little cleaning saves a lot of money

It's worth a little effort to keep all elements of your heating system clean. You'll save on fuel bills and enjoy safe, trouble-free heating. Here are a few checkpoints...

1. With a circulating warm air furnace, clean the heat exchanger and burners.
2. Clean or replace furnace filters frequently.
3. Clean lint regularly from hot water or steam radiators.
4. Flush the low water cut-off of a steam boiler once a week until water runs clear.
5. Clean lint and other debris from registers or electric heat baseboard panels.
6. Blowers and blower motors should be cleaned and oiled sparingly at regular intervals. Make sure the blower belt is tight and not worn.
7. Make sure the chimney is free of any debris. Check the chimney by placing a lighted match under the diverter, at the connection of the furnace exhaust pipe. If the flame blows out or downward, shut off the furnace until the chimney is cleaned.
8. Weatherstrip all doors and windows to prevent heat loss.
9. Storm sash and storm doors save money on fuel bills. Or cover doors and windows with clear plastic.
10. You can be comfortable at lower temperatures by raising the humidity. Use an electric humidifier or water containers on registers or radiators.
11. Thermostat should be on an inside wall, away from sources of heat such as registers or lamps.

Practical Politics course

An action course in practical politics will be offered the public starting at 7 p.m. Thursday at the East Side Levee District office, 1707 Madison Ave., under the auspices of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club.

The course, which consists of six two-hour workshop sessions to be conducted weekly, was formulated and published by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Vernice Wortman of Granite City is serving as course coordinator. Presented on a strict non-partisan basis, the discussion series is designed specifically for small groups. Mrs. Wortman said. Its purpose is to teach the individual how to work in and through the political party of his or her choice.

Reservations for the course may be made by calling Mrs. Marie Hampton, at 876-3885, this week.

Topics to be covered include: The Individual in Politics;

MRS. VERNICE WORTMAN
Course instructor

Political Party Organization; The Political Precinct; The Political Campaign; Political Clubs; Political Leaders' Problem; Political Meetings; Businessmen in Politics; and

The Politicians Speak

Mrs. Wortman, 3460 Washington Ave., completed the practical politics course in 1969 when the series was presented by the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce. Since that time she has led eight workshop courses.

An active member of the GC Business and Professional Women's Club since 1958, Mrs. Wortman has served as president for two terms in 1964-65 and on the governing board for a four-year term.

She has served as a state central committeewoman, was elected a precinct committeewoman and was a write in candidate for county office in 1966. She still remains active in local and state politics and civic affairs.

The course instructor is a charter member of Calvary Baptist Church and has held office in the Illinois State Baptist Association. Presently, she is serving as president of the Granite City Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons.

District BPW leaders convene

A picnic and officers' training program for representatives of 13 Business and Professional Women's clubs in District 14 were held last week at the Elm Street Presbyterian Church in Alton. Hosting the event were members of the Alton BPW Club.

The "get-acquainted" picnic and workshop were arranged to enable new officers from district clubs to discuss common problems and learn their respective duties for the new club year. A magician entertained the group prior to the training session. Attending from Granite City club were Mesdames Lil Marchuf, Verna Lengyel, Lorene Sadrakula, Pauline Weir, Gladys Newman, Edna Kohlbrecher, Marie Seymoch, Marionrose Lambert, Martha Sevia, Ann Graklanoff, Shirley Adams, Miss Antellen Smith and a guest, Mrs. Florence Blake.

Mrs. Alma Brown, District 14 chairman, was in charge of the business session and announced a reception is planned Oct. 20 at the Ramada Inn, Champaign, honoring Miss Jean McCarrey, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and the first Illinoisan to hold the national office. Reservations for the event will cost $8 per person, she advised.

Clubs are being asked to contribute amounts equivalent to $2 per member to defray expenses in seeking ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) bill in eight states, Mrs. Brown said. The assessment was authorized at the BPW national convention and is due July 1, 1974, she added.

Legislation chairmen of all Illinois BPW clubs are being asked to compile a card file of members by congressional district and forward the information to Miss Ann Poag, Illinois State Federation chairwoman, it was announced.

It was reported that District 14 clubs will compete in a membership recruitment campaign with groups in District 16. Persons enlisting three new members will earn a "shamrock" award from the National BPW, Mrs. Brown said.

A fall district meeting is scheduled at 1:15 p.m. Oct. 28 at the Oasis, Restaurant in Carrollton, the officer said. She also reminded chairmen of such programs as Young Career Woman, legislation, program and membership to submit copies of their planned activities for 1973-74 prior to Oct. 1.

Newcomers style show

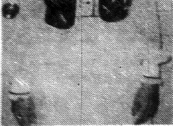

Fall and winter fashions in sportswear and evening dress for both men and women will be featured at the Newcomers' fashion show and card party to be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Fellowship Hall at Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road.

Sarah Repp will serve as commentator for the show. Mrs. Repp will be in charge of arranging the fund raising project. Proceeds will benefit several charitable activities of the club, she said.

Tickets, costing $1.50, may be obtained by calling 877-1188 or 931-5662, or may be purchased at the door on the evening of the show.

Modeling the new styles will be Judy Baker, Barb Maycock, Mary Jane Hart, Sheri Druce, Belinda Johnson, Donna Kadell, Doty Stevens, Jo Butler, Lee Ann Phillips, Karen Winters, Edna Schneider, Bob Massman, Virgil Ware, Walter Winters and several children.

A variety of prizes will be awarded in the card games. Club members also plan a bazaar with many holiday items to be offered for sale and refreshments will be served, the chairman said.
